The Link Counseling Center, since 1971, provides compassionate, affordable mental health services to individuals and families regardless of their economic circumstances.

Today's Mental Health Crisis

- Over 50% of adults with mental health needs go untreated due to financial barriers, impacting community stability, workplace productivity, and family well-being.
- Low- and middle-income families face the steepest hurdles, with little to no access to affordable counseling or psychotherapy.
- Escalating rates of anxiety and depression affect individuals of all ages. Left untreated, these challenges can lead to profound despair, loss of hope, and sometimes even loss of life.

The Human Cost: Lives Behind the Statistics

A Family in Crisis: A husband and wife married 17 years, tense with anger and betrayal, are trying to find a path forward to rebuild their family of 6.

Overcoming Despair: A man who lost his job after 25 years makes it through another night battling thoughts of suicide.

Healing Hidden Wounds: A 50-year-old woman, isolated for decades by a secret of childhood abuse, takes her first steps toward trust and connection.

Guiding Grief: Eight-year-old Tommy, silent and unable to attend school since losing his mother last week, needs a safe place to process his loss.
